

Naomi Foy Brewer

July 7, 1942 - June 8, 2021

Naomi Foy Brewer, 78, died on June 8, 2021, in Charlotte, NC. She was, at heart, a Texan: a devoted wife, mother, and friend whose kind and vivacious personality shall long be remembered.

Naomi was born in Fort Benning, GA, on July 7, 1942. An Army child, she grew up and traveled every corner of the U.S., Germany, Lebanon, Greece, Monaco and beyond. Though this uprooted lifestyle would've been challenging for many, Naomi thrived, becoming adaptable and outgoing — qualities she'd carry with her the rest of her life.

Once her parents retired to their home state of Texas, Naomi attended Texas Woman's University where she also waitressed at Red Rooster's, a drive-in diner. One evening, she roller-skated up to a customer's car. As they'd both say later, it was love at first sight; along with a burger, she gave the customer her number. A year later, at the age of 19, they wed in White Sands, NM. She and Chuck Brewer would remain married, and in love, for the next 54 years.

Soon after, they welcomed two daughters. As Chuck was in the Army, the family was highly transient; Naomi, however, never grumbled about the many moves. With an impeccable eye for design and materials and colors, she turned every house into a beautiful home.

After Chuck retired, the couple settled in San Antonio, where they made many wonderful friends. Naomi loved her friendships and enjoyed drinking wine and yip-yapping with her girlfriends, which they did aplenty on their three-hour long luncheons and annual cruises. With Chuck, she enjoyed oil painting and dancing the tango; they celebrated their 45th anniversary with an elegant party on the San Antonio Riverwalk.

In her early 70s, tragedy struck when Naomi fell, leaving her a quadriplegic. She moved to Charlotte to be closer to family — and though she experienced a cascade of additional medical issues, she demonstrated untold bravery and resilience, remaining strong and upbeat through it all.

Naomi will be remembered as lighthearted and uniquely artistic. She was endlessly creative, making over 50 wedding cakes, origami-like quilts, wedding dresses and oil paintings.

Big-hearted and caring, Naomi was a consummate hostess who made everyone feel like they mattered. She adored romance novels, probably because they reflected the way she believed life should be: filled with fun, adventure, and love.

Naomi was predeceased by her husband, Chuck Brewer. She is survived by her daughters, Yvonne Kohlmeier (Ray) and Monica Miller (Mark); and her granddaughters, Kristine Kohlmeier and Morgan Miller.

Services will be held at Sayers Cemetery in Adkins TX on June 15, 2021 at 12:00. In lieu of flowers, the family welcomes in-memoriam donations to Hospice & Palliative Care Charlotte Region (hpccr.org).

“ Naomi was such a lovely person. From the first day I met her I was connected! She had a spirit and a gift that inspired me and I feel honored to have known her and had the opportunity to be apart of her life. Her daughters were so wonderful and committed to her. Her love for life will forever be a treasured part of my memories of her.

“ We met Chuck and Naomi at Andrews AFB MD. They lived down the street from us and Chuck was serving in the same unit with Mark. Naomi was always adventurous and we all loved her. She was full of love and the sun always seemed to shine wherever she was. She will be missed by all but I know that she and Chuck are probably dancing right now, I can see her in my minds eye throwing her head back and laughing.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Monica and Yvonne. Just remember that your parents will always be watching over you and will live on in your hearts.

“ I remember many occasions with Naomi and Chuck. He had his camera and she had the goodies. They were always so happy and fun to be around. She and my mother Barbara became great friends. Our deepest sympathies. May you find peace in your memories of her.
