“ As soon as I returned to work from maternity leave 2 weeks ago I asked about you and how you were doing. With everyone saying they hadn't seen you in a while I had a gut feeling that it couldn't be good. Sure enough, today after not getting answers I looked and saw that you passed. You were by far one of my favorite patients and will be truly missed at your favorite 1604 & Braun location!! I'll miss helping someone at the counter then randomly hearing music in the drive thru thinking to myself, "Mr. Lopez is here!" You ALWAYS played the BEST oldies!! I also remember you telling me you beat cancer with the biggest smile and then the look on your face when you said it came back :( I told you that you were going to beat it again and to keep your head up...so coming back learning that cancer took over was a slap in the face; I wish I could've seen you one more time before I left. But I am happy you are in a better place with no worries! You had one hell of a fight! Rest peacefully Mr. Lopez!!

“ Alex so many memories I want to share. Brother you have taught me determination. Even though your fight was rough you never gave up. Every time I saw you. You were always so positive. You weren't going to let anything bring you down. You taught me that life is precious. You fought a good fight till the end. I will always cherish your determination and love for life. Thank you brother for being you and loving us your family. RIP brother. Your little sis Sandra ❤️
