“ I have such good memories of my father. It has taken me nearly 20 years to write this since I am joyfully in the analog world and avoid the internet. Tonight I discovered this brief obituary. Dad was a very kind father to me and the best possible father to someone so eccentric as I. He probably had reasonable doubts about my survival into the future but I have a beautiful life of contemplative solitude and my garden on my property is dedicated to his memory. Eternal thanks to your kind understanding and giving me the liberty to be me. Warren, son of Alfred.
