“ Memories of Me and Momma,

I just want you to know I learned so much from you as from the time I was a sickly baby until my present adulthood. When I was a sickly child you were always there for me in the hospital. I remember you falling asleep on that very uncomfortable hospital chair and being exhausted and hungry from being with me day and night never leaving my sight. I remember you always defending me whenever I'd get into a fight, break a teacher's windshield, or just doing something mischievous that got me in trouble and being so cool and lenient with me most of the time. I remember always holding your hand anywhere we went out in public and as the older I got you loved it even more for me to do so. I remember you always defending me when dad would get after me. I remember you always trying to find a way to entertain me cuz my siblings were too old to hang out with me. I loved going to the movies with you downtown at the Aztec theater where we watched movies epic movies such as: The warriors and Friday the 13th. And after the movies we go down the street at the corner to Coney Island and eat the best chili dogs ever. I remember you always being there to comfort me whenever I was sad and blue. I remember you always giving me good advice. I remember us entwining our hands together sometimes when we would have our talks. I remember us nodding our heads a certain way and just laugh when we did it. I could go on and on on our beautiful memories together. But momma I REMEMBER!!!! And I shall never ever whatsoever FORGET!!!

*Love your Gordita,
Jeannie*

“ Grandma, you were the person who taught me how to be safe, the one who would wait for me after school at the front of your gate, the one who watched me for so many summers. I will miss all the advice, and words of wisdom you instilled in me. You were one of the strongest woman I knew and I get my strength from you. I will miss you and all the love you had for me and my family.

“ My deepest condolences to all her loved ones, especially her children, my second family. She was like my second mom and I loved her dearly. Throughout the years I witnessed the immense love she had for her family, especially during family gatherings, because family was the most important thing to her. I will miss her lovely smile and her motherly advise. May you rest in peace sweet angel, I will never forget you!
