“ To all who knew my mom knew that she was a happy and loving person. She might not have smiled but you knew she loved you by the warm hugs and the blessing she would say for you. My mom was not just a mom to me. She was my best friend. I knew that I could confide in her and trust that she would not judge me even though I knew she might not approved of thing I did or chose to do. She never stopped loving me. I am truly blessed that she is no longer suffering and has reunited with our heavenly father and of course the love of her life my daddy. I know that she missed him so much and every holiday was hard especially on Valentine's day. She would always say that my dad was her man and that he was the only one who ever got her roses. After daddy passed, she knew that she would not allow another man to buy her roses. Instead, she grew her own roses. Everyday she looked outside and saw her roses, she would think of daddy. My sibling and I would make it a point to bring her roses on Valentine's day so that she knew that we also loved her just as much as my dad did. I will miss our crazy conversations, our last minute get-aways and of course shopping. Mom I miss you so much but I know that you are no longer in pain. Today is her first Valentine's Day with daddy and I know that he had heaven filled with the most beautiful roses for her. Te Amo
