Amadeo was kind hearted to those he knew and those he came across. He touched their lives all in different ways with the experiences both good and bad he endured throughout his life and put them to work as examples of counsel to both young and old. He was a jack of all trades especially enjoyed making things with his own two hands. Although life had its ups and downs he never stopped giving of himself and we know he loved God and family dearly. He loved with all he had left. He will be tremendously missed by those who loved him.
