“ It has been many years since I have seen Ramona and Angel, but they are forever a part of me. I lived across the street from them, growing up. Sandy was my best friend and Ramona and Angel treated me like one of their kids. I can't remember a day I did not see them. Angel even took Sandy and I in his "big rig". We stopped at a truck stop for chicken fried steak and he let Sandy and I use the radio to talk to other drivers while we held up our Cabbage Patch Kids and waved to them. When they would go to Rio Grande or the ranch, I was always invited to go to. The Escobars were my second family for all of my younger years. My heart breaks to learn of Angel's passing. He was always friendly, smiling and making a joke. I never saw him angry or in a bad mood (even when Sandy wrecked the car into a priests vehicle). He loved Ramona, his kids, his parents, his family and friends (Even the dogs, Rocky and Roxy). I know he will be missed by many, but I take comfort knowing he is with Sandy and JR and they are all watching over Ramona and Jerry. Much love to the Escobar family.

Love Always,

Christy (Fischer)

“ When i was little i knew he was grandpa but my grandma would always call him honey, so i thought his name was honey and would occasionally call him that. It wasn't until i got older that i found out his name was Angel. The name Angel is a staple in our family. Because of my grandpa every boy in our family has the middle name angel. Even the ones who have multiple boys like myself. With the exception of my brother Eric lol who has nothing but girls. so he had no choice but to name one of his daughters middle name angel lol. My grandpa was one of a kind and i hope we keep this name tradition going for generations to come. He was the best grandpa anyone could ask for and I'm not just saying that bc he was mine. He was a very humble and generous man and i admired that about him. Since i was little I've always looked up to him as an example of what a great man, husband, father and grandpa should be. Years later i married a man who is just like my grandpa and for that i want to thank him for setting the bar so high to find my person just like him. We were all very blessed to have him for as long as we did. As much as we are all going to miss him. It brings me peace knowing he is with his children, his brothers and his parents. This loss was a tough one but one thing about us Escobars is that we will always be there for each other. I love you, grandpa and we will miss you.

“ I first meet Angel back in the 80's when he was driving for Central Freight Lines later on I moved on to Freightliner where he became a customer of mine that would come into the store and talk my head off. The man always had a happy face no matter what. His grandson John and my granddaughter Madison have told me so many stories about him. He will be missed.
