“ We sat quietly outside on the patio and enjoyed the company of each other, listening to the birds and the soft sounds of wind chimes. We watched a silver spoon, cut like a fish, twinkle in the daylight. The air was crisp and fresh. There were leaves scattered across the yard, being gently pushed around by a playful breeze. The year was creeping to an end, it was November.

“ This is a very sad day for me, I have a lump in my throat that hurts so bad and my tear filled eyes won't let me see the words I'm putting down. It's important that I share how my Aunt Angie touched my life. I truly feel that watching her with her children taught me the importance of a mother's love. There wasn't anything she wouldn't do for her children. I would listen as she would give them her attention and validate whatever it was that they would say be it silly or serious. I often heard her helping my cousins with schoolwork and sometimes just teaching them life lessons. If one of her children was sick or hurt she was there tending to them along with hugs and kisses. I also remember her wonderful desserts, when she would bake it brought me right to her front door sniffing and trying to guess what it was going to be. I was sure happy when she caught a glimpse of me because that meant I was getting dessert. As a child, teenager and young adult I was an observer of people, always taking in information keeping the good and disposing of the bad. I took plenty of good from my aunt. My beautiful Aunt Angie with her warm friendly smile, generosity and let's not forget her amazing hair gave me more than she will ever know. She gave me the gift of what kind of mom I want to be and I will be eternally grateful for it. My deepest condolences to the family.....A Poem I'd like to share.....Today you called, we spoke about the loss of a loved one. You shared your memories and dreams that you had all the while as cardinal sat perched on the fence. It stared as if to be listening as the words of your grief came pouring out and when you were done it flew away perhaps never to return again. I then shared fond memories of her beautiful mane in all its perfection only to be interrupted by sounds that insisted on my attention. As I peered through the window not able to see but recognizing the sweet song of a bird. The song continued as I hurried to the door and opened it. There with a purpose on a limb that reached towards my door she sat perched singing her song and when she was done she flew away. I do believe that she will visit us another day.....Love Lettie 💕

“ To Angie’s children of Veronica, Juan, Mona, and Javier, all the grandchildren, brothers and sisters, and extended family and friends left behind, I mourn with you all. My heart goes out to each of you. My hope is that we find peace and comfort knowing Angie’s journey in life has led to her desired final destination in heaven above.

As I reflect on my relationship with my Aunt Angie, I’m honored to have had her in my life and hold her in high regard as my second mother. She was and will always be my very special aunt that meant the world to me. Angie was a humble, kind and considerate soul with a great sense of humor. She was always there for you when you needed a friend and was a voice of reason. She made anyone who came across her feel comfortable, happy, and loved.

During my youth, my Aunt Angie taught me how to play checkers and we played quite often. I actually beat her a few times but I truly think she may have let me win. Aunt Angie took me to my very first movie at the Aztec 3. I believe this is where I was introduced to Vicente Fernandez. To this day when I hear or see “Chente”, I think of her. I also had the privilege of spending time with my Aunt Angie at El Elegido Rodriguez Ranch in Mexico. During this time, she taught me to enjoy the simplicities of life and appreciate what I had. Yes, this city boy was out getting water from the canal, chasing chickens to get eggs for breakfast, and sleeping on the roof to enjoy nature’s free air conditioning under the stars. Recollecting these memories definitely brought a smile to my face and joy to my heart.

As I got older, I noticed how Aunt Angie united the family with a bag of sweetbread and coffee. Whether we meet at her house, Grandmas house, or anyone else’s house we always enjoyed each other’s company and had lots of laughs. During special occasions and holidays, Aunt Angie would make these pineapple empanadas she became known for. One day I asked if she could teach me how to make them. She provided me a list of all the ingredients to buy and we coordinated a weekend of fun. I studied how she made them and took notes. I put together a recipe I’ve titled “Angie Saucedo's (Aunt) Pineapple Empanadas" and now share it. My hope is that each one of you use this recipe to build and strengthen family bonds, have the same laughs and love for one another and create memories that'll last a lifetime. This is what I know Aunt Angie accomplished within our family. Aunt Angie lived her life showing me that that the love of family is like no other and life begins and ends with family. I cherish these memories with my Aunt Angie and they are forever ingrained in my mind.

With Everlasting Love,

“ To everyone affected by this great loss, I extend my condolences. My Aunt Angie was a great inspiration to me. She was positive, beautiful, and had a love for the Lord she always shared. I cherish my conversations with her that gave me confidence and taught me to believe in my dreams. My Aunt Angie actually gave me my first make-up lesson although she was naturally beautiful. This lesson led me on my career in cosmetology.

One evening when I was around thirteen, I saw Angie writing a poem so I asked about it. She read it to me and I instantly loved it. I asked if I could have a copy of it and she gave me a handwritten one. This poem shows Angie's reverence for the Lord she carried her whole life. I hold this poem near and dear to my heart and share it below. I've also attached the actual copy of this poem I displayed at my wedding.

I will never forget that she was always there to listen to me and give me positive advice. She helped me through many of my problems even if the issues involved her sister (my mother). I am who I am because of Angie. I will always be grateful for having her in my life and her spirit will always be in my heart and mind. Until we meet again....

Angie's Plea To the Lord

One night when I cried to the Lord in despair I asked the Lord what should I do when I felt you weren't there "The Lord said, you know my Laws, my Statues and commands," So stand firm by the (Word) and Believe for you are my daughter and I am your Light and I shall not leave you not
at noon nor at night

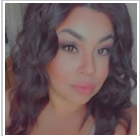

Aunt Angie

With Eternal Love,

Mary Jane Galvan-Horne

“ My beautiful Aunt Angie you will be greatly missed. Thank you for the unconditional generosity and hospitality you extended to my mom and I in my youth. You were always willing to open your doors to us whenever we faced a hardship. The love you had for your family is a legacy like no other, that will continue, as it shows in how greatly your kids and grandkids love, and their compassion for others. I will forever be grateful and will hold memories of you dear. The most valuable life lesson I learned from your generosity is, even when we have nothing else to give, we still have love for others. You will always cross my mind when I find myself gathered with others around empanadas and sweet breads while the inviting scent of coffee fills the air. As it was always a staple and beacon in your home for family to gather to share laughs, small-talk, and a warm meal no matter the time of day. Thank you for those family memories! To family, my deepest condolences and love to you all in your healing.
