“ I worked with Arthur at The Light in the '70s and early '80s, and still have many pleasant memories of him -- especially his help with proper pronunciation of Polish names. My condolences to his loved ones.

“ Mr. Moczygemba, as that is how I knew him, was a wonderful man. He was friendly and warm and easy to talk to. I remember as a teenager being in his backyard on Woodcliffe on a warm summer evening hearing him tell about the newspaper business and who knows what all else. He was philosophical by nature and even though I was very young he treated me like an equal. He exuded peace and contentment. He smiled readily and always had a twinkle in his eye. He once showed me a little shoebox that had rolled up inside it a manuscript he'd hoped to get published. The last time I saw him - it had been many years - he started up the conversation as though we'd just left off the day before. As we parted he gave me a very interesting book about biological altruism which I still have on my bookshelf. Mr. Moczygemba was a good man.

“ Spent many a late night with Arthur in the newsroom when we had to meet a deadline and we didn't have all the facts of a story. One memory that stands out is when a DPS trooper and two deputies were killed in an ambush in Atascosa County in 1999. Arthur was calm and supportive as several of us tried to find someone who would tell us what was going on. Carmina Danini
