Betty was a Godly woman, a prayer warrior and a charter member of Sheltering Arms Full Gospel Church. She taught Sunday school and showed the love of Jesus to everyone. She had clear moral standards, but she let God do the judging. Betty loved using the computer. She extensively researched the genealogy of both her and her husband's families. She enjoyed sharing stories and Jesus with Facebook friends and family. She was an amazing storyteller, always ready with accounts of her own history and world events. Betty witnessed many things in her long life, including World War II, the great Depression, poverty, and great personal loss, but she always maintained her grace and dignity in adversity.

Betty was married to the love of her life, Barney Alexander, for 48 years. They had many adventures in life, and after 26 years of separation, Betty and Barney have been reunited for eternity.
