Betty was a mother, farmer's wife, day care worker, keypunch operator, tax preparer, and election polls worker. Everyone remembers her fruitcakes, cinnamon rolls, and chocolate chip cookies. She is famous for her crocheted doilies and afghans. The walls in her home were covered with her 'Precious Moments' cross-stitch pictures. Then she began to piece hundreds of patchwork quilts tops. Some ladies from her church helped tie these quilts which were distributed to others. The last few years of her life were not spent watching TV, she began doing worksheets, cutting out Shirley Temple paper dolls, and pasting interesting collages.

She will be greatly missed by family and friends.

Donations to Dellview Baptist Church in her memory will be greatly appreciated.
