

Bobbie Chapman Walker

October 8, 1941 - June 6, 2017

Bobbie Chapman Walker was born on October 8, 1941 in San Antonio, TX to Robert Lee, called “Bob”, and Sank Chapman Mayers. After graduating from Jefferson High School in San Antonio, she went on to Baylor University in Waco, Texas and later received her masters from Colorado State. After college, she followed in her mother’s footsteps and became a public school teacher. She taught English and World Literature in Edgewood ISD at Kennedy High School in San Antonio and ended her public school career at San Antonio ISD. In addition to encouraging students in her classroom, she served as the head of the English Department and as a member of different curriculum adoption committees for the English Department. Later, she taught English at Palo Alto Community College where she continued to share her love of literature and writing. Besides teaching, Bobbie enjoyed singing in the choir at First Baptist Church for several years and helping with their community ministries including teaching English as a second language. In addition to reading and music, she loved to garden, travel and bird-watching. She left two daughters, Bobbie Jo and Jimmie Lynn, and four grandchildren. A graveside service will be held on Saturday, June 10 at 10:00am at Mission Park South, San Antonio.

“ She embodies the most beautiful of Human Traits.....an Inner and Outer Beauty that affected all she knew.....Always Kind...Gentle..and Believed all were special....all had a place in this worldA Teacher....A Mentor...Friend...Mother..and Her Most cherished endeavor.....Her Grandchildren.....They will live much fuller lives having had her as Their Grandmother and Friend.....Bobbie will be missed when we do not see her at the door or picking up her grandchildren from school.....teaching her college students to love the English Language as she did.....But....she will be there watching and giving a gentle nudge throughout our livesUntil we see her on the Other Side.....She will be there....Waiting.....
