“ To my sister and great friend who was always worried about me and not so much about herself. She was a very courageous lady who continually fought health battles but her faith in Jesus Christ was her strength to face anything. I did not know her family as much as I would have liked as I was a career U.S Navy sailor who was always moving from one place or another. Her family was her "pride and Joy" who was mentioned in every phone call I got from her... Perfect Christian example which I am sure drew many to Christ.
