“ On Sunday the day before she passed away while she held her husbands hand she turned to me. She said, "Isai, I remember now my favorite song. Amor Eterno by Vicente Fernandez." The funny thing is that a few months ago I asked her the same question and again the night before. Both times she said she could not remember. Then suddenly with her husbands hand in hers it came back to her. Since she had only been lucid for 10% of each day in her last week this was truly amazing.
