“ Working with Cas and Doris at the Highway 90 Flea Market was always more of a hobby and something to do on the weekends. Having booths directly across from each other made it easy for us to constantly talk about everything and nothing to which Cas listened and laughed at all those stories we talked about. Those were the good times that will last with us for ever as friends remembering and talking about the past like it use to be. We will always remember Cass as a wonderful person and today, we offer Doris our condolences and prayers at this time of need. Michael and Maria Inocente
