“ I met Bubba around 1990 when Clint and I first became friends. In the following three decades Bubba became a very familiar and expected part of my life. It is impossible for me to think of coming home to San Antonio for a visit and not having at least one beer with Bubba in his shop. Thursday when I drove onto the property to meet Clint for lunch, it felt so odd knowing Bubba was not in there having a cold one.

The man was friend, a mentor, and a heck of a good ol' boy. I shall miss Bubba everyday for the rest of my life. It will feel odd not hearing him call me "hippy" and tease me about my expensive craft beer. I will think of Bubba everytime I go fishing or read an article in the Express New.

Love you, Bubba. I promise to always keep it between the stripes!
