“ My dear, sweet DJ, I can't believe you're gone. I don't want to believe you're gone. We have so many good memories of you. I remember the day you were born. I would ask Uncle Larry to take me to see you every chance I got. I remember that we would leave your house late at night on the weekends and half way home, we would have to turn around and go back to pick you up because you were still crying because we had left. You spent so many weekends with us. You were our baby. Uncle Larry's fondest memory is that he was the first one to put you on a horse. You looked so cute with your jeans and boots.

After Grandma Betty passed away, you came to live with Grandpa Oscar because you didn't want him to be alone. We grew closer together because we would pick you up from work for months until you got your car. I enjoyed the talks we had on our 30 minute ride home every night. You had so many plans and aspirations.

You were always a great son, grandson, brother, uncle and cousin, but above all, you were a great nephew. Uncle Larry and I will miss you so much. We will never forget you because you will live on in our hearts and memories.

Until we see each other again, I know that I now have another Angel watching over us. You will always be a part of us. I will love you til the day I die, Mijo.
