“ Dennis: You have always been such a sweet man. You never once raised your voice or seemed frustrated, even when we were being mischievous and disobedient. All the board games, the holidays, the laughter, and the trip to CA--those stand out in my mind. I remember the first time I met you and how I was scared because you were an unfamiliar face to a small child. I remember how you called me "She She." You've experienced so much pain and discomfort, but I never heard you complain-EVER. Strength can come in many forms, and with you, it came in the form of an easy going, pleasant, and sweet man.

I love you, Dinners. Tell my mom I love her, too, each time you see her, please.
