Thank you Ms. Sandra..for being a great friend to my dad and to myself. Your kindness and positivity are very much appreciated. I'm sure my dad is smiling down knowing how kind you've been especially during such a difficult and very painful time in our lives. My heart hurts so much, the funeral was torture for me and my kids; feeling as we were being kicked at our lowest and still suffering the loss of my grandson AND my dad. But everything happens for a reason and God sees all. We crossed paths and helped each other find peace as we mourn. I hope we can remain friends despite my dad's absence. Your positivity and advice have been comforting to me and my family. I know you also endure a painful loss with my dad's passing; I'm sorry. At least he isn't suffering anymore, right? God gives and He takes, never promising anyone a long Betty White life. But He definitely carries me and my family through our suffering. With God's grace, my dad was gifted 3 extra years of life, and he didn't die alone. All I have left of my dad, are my memories, and two crosses from his funeral. Amazing memories that will go with me when my time comes. I hope my kids are by my side as I was able to be for my Dad. And until then, I'll continue to move forward with my family and friends, making new memories, remembering what my dad taught me, and holding on to my Faith in God when challenges are presented.
