“ Hi mom. I think about you every single day and wish I could tell you how right you were about so many things. I only wish I had listened to you when I had the chance but now you are gone and I see the wisdom that I didn't listen to. I still talk to you everyday even though you're not here. I guess you're in heaven with Lori now because she passed away yesterday and David says there will be no Services as she is being cremated. I hope the two of you will be in each other's arms soon and know that I love you both very much.
