Emily was a loving wife and mother. She was an excellent seamstress who was able to look at any dress or item of clothing and make her own pattern. She baked daily for her family and worked side by side with her husband, even helping to build their retirement home on Lake LBJ, including getting on top of the roof. She loved nature and gardening. A friend once told her she could even see the beauty in a common weed. She was a devout Catholic and enjoyed volunteer work at nursing homes into her 80's to help the "old people". She was loved and will be missed by all.

The family wishes to thank her caregiver, Diana Mercado, and the nursing staff at Vitas Hospice for their dedication, comfort and loving care.
