“ I just got the news and am devastated. I'm sorry I missed the ceremony. I always looked forward to seeing Erika and talking with her. She had so many dreams and plans for life. The bass drum will never sound the same. Condolences to the family and other friends.

“ A wonderful musician full of life and energy. I will always remember her dancing around Burns Night to the "poor man's dj," playing "Scotland the Brave" on her huge drum with the Hamilton sticker, and singing the Hobbit Drinking song at the Scottish Picnic. You were taken from us too soon but I hope you have already started a Ceilidh in heaven.

“ We love you Erika. We never have met, and never will meet anyone quite like you. Thank you for all the kindness, all the compassion, all the sweetness and all the thoughtfulness you showered us with over the years. We hope you are resting peacefully now with your momma and your daddy and all the other loved ones who have gone before you, and we know that this world really wasn't good enough and really didn't deserve to keep you in its possession any longer. Though we never got the chance to say goodbye, your spirit has touched us in ways that we never thought possible, and it will live on in our thoughts, in our hearts and in our actions always and forever. May god protect and love you and your enchanted soul eternally.

“ Erika was so passionate, big hearted, and just...fearless. I watched her play rugby and recite poetry. Not at the same time, but I bet she would've nailed it if she did.

“ I got the word tonight about our Erika. I'm sitting here trying to process the fact that I'm never going to see her again, hear her laugh, see the utter JOY upon her face as she pounds that big bass drum or the bodhran, have a serious talk with her about dealing with the losses of our Parents, hear her go on and on about some stage musical I've never seen but I'm delighted about her enthusiasm for it, hear her try to do a Scottish accent, sing her Hobbit song or Les Miserables song off-key, but with all of her soul... and her big, warm hugs. God, this is going to take a long time to come to grips with.
