“ Daughter Kimberly Flores:
The heaviest heart I've ever had to bare...I'm blessed & forever grateful to have been raised by this phenomenal woman...not only did she help instill great values, work ethic & love upon me, she gave me life lessons and wisdom to help mold me into the woman & mother I am today...like her; she taught me to accept myself for who I am and not care what others think, live my life to the fullest regardless of others...she's been by my side through the best times of my life and guided me through not so great times...thank you for being the best mother & grandmother; you are my best friend, my rock & can't imagine the road ahead, finishing life's journey without her...I carry with me my kid's heartache, with God, each other & family, I know we will begin the healing process knowing she is no longer in pain alongside her parents up above...I'll love you always, rest easy mom, until I see you again my beautiful angel...❤️🙏🏻✝️

“ Some of my favorite memories with grandma is when we would take her out to eat, when we would come over to her house on Christmas Eve, when she would come to our birthday parties, and just spending time with her. I enjoyed taking her out to eat on her birthday and Mother’s Day. I loved coming over to her house to spend time with her on Christmas Eve, and I’m going to miss that. She would come all the way from her house to our birthday parties, even if it was 30 minutes away. I just enjoyed just talking to her, whether it just be coming over to her house or talking to her on the phone.

I love you grandma, fly high. I’ll continue to make you proud, and one day I’ll come visit you in heaven. Thank you so much for everything you did! ❤️🙏

“ One of my favorite memories of my grandma is eating dinner at her house and how incredibly strict she was. Whatever was on the menu was delicious and no matter the size of meal we had on our plates she made sure we ate every last bite. If we didn't eat very last bite she would threaten to give us medicine that would make us hungry. So my brother, cousins and I would sit there trying to finish our food, but at times we're so stuffed we had to force it. We would be so stuffed that we'd be laughing about it and my grandma would always say, "don't start with that risa!" So my cousins and I as silly as we were, we'd look at one another practically choke on our food and continue giggling like we weren't supposed to. Although my grandma didn't want anyone laughing, I feel as if she knew we couldn't help it so she's just start shouting more. Now, as an adult, I miss being a child because of times like that at the dinner table. It's one of the funniest childhood memories I have of my grandma and I can still hear her voice saying, "don't start with that risa!"

I love you, grandma (my angel); thank you for everything that you did for my family. I will continue to strive in life for you to make you proud of me and my children ❤️🙌
