“ It is with great sadness that I learn of the passing of my dear mentor of days of long ago. As a counselor at San Antonio College, I had the privilege of working beside Maxine and of learning from her so many things. I brought with me when I moved to Romania, a pair of pillow slips that she gave me in the 1980's. She had embroidered the hems with green thread. I have them still. I left her a message once and hoped that she got to read it. The world needs more people like Maxine. Her family is so lucky to have had her in their lives. Wishing Grace and Peace and Love, Nancy Clayton Rice

“ Maxine and her husband, Pop, were fixtures in my childhood. My brother and I loved visiting them and their house, which was a wonderland of delight for kids! They had a swing on a pulley that would zip across the yard, and (at least it seems to me) spooky antiques everywhere. It is completely accurate to say that my abiding love of ‘curiosity cabinets’ came from Maxine’s incredible collection, and I still love stereoscopes. Pop and Maxine never ceased to amaze and amuse us with tales of the war and wartime, and all the years after. Such stories-- so glamorous to us kids!!!
