

Frances Wetmore

June 16, 1926 - January 30, 2006

Mrs. Frances Wetmore passed away early Monday morning, January 30, 2006 after a lengthy pulmonary illness. Born June 16, 1926, in Fort Dodge, Iowa, she was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Callahan. Mom was always proud to tell others that her father was the Fire Chief of Fort Dodge, and her mother was an award-winning cook. She was passionate about gardening and equally as passionate about protecting her gardens. Many a grandchild was regaled with stories about their Vahar chasing bold cats and gangster squirrels from these sacred grounds. Frances was also an avid reader, checking the New York Times Best Seller's List every week to make sure she was up to date with the latest literature. Most of all, she was the beloved mother of Michael, Timothy, Patrick, Eileen, Mary Frances, and Katy. Mom was preceded in death by her parents, her brother, Jim Callahan, and her grandson, Damian Krueger. She is survived by her sister, Mary Jane Regan of St. Louis, six children, numerous grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. The Wetmore family wishes to thank Vitas Hospice for their care and express our deepest appreciation to our mother's primary caregiver, Estella Sanchez. She has been a godsend. There will be a private family memorial.

“ Dear Wetmores,

I'll miss talking and visiting with "Aunt Frances." She was such a great wealth of knowledge. I was doing some family research in 2000 and called Frances inquiring about the Callahan geneology.
She gave me great information that I put do
