“ Gail, as a mother, my heart breaks for you... Linda, as a wife, my heart breaks for you as well. I can only imagine what you two are going through. It's still hard to believe he's gone... Gabe (Fatty McFats), was like a little brother to Eric and I, and uncle to our sons. I recall when Eric was teaching me how to drive standard in his old, beat up Comet and Gabe going along for the bumpy ride. Gabe was about 14 years old then. Gabe would tell Eric not to be so hard on me while he was teaching me :-). As we were heading down Sinclair Rd., Gabe decided to stick his hand out the window and ended up cutting his hand with bamboo. The cut was pretty bad. One evening, when we were having eggplant parmesan for dinner, Gabe came over so we invited him to join us. Gabe said it was sooo good and asked what type of meat we used. Eric and I laughed. We knew he didn't really care for veggies. Eric told him there was no meat, just eggplant. Gabe couldn't believe it! That didn't stop him from finishing his plate :-). Gabe was always generous when he came to visit and made many memories with us that we will forever cherish. Gabe, you will forever be missed, but never forgotten. By the Grace of God, we will all rejoice with you, in God's time:-). Until then, please give your mom and Linda strength to carry on. I have faith you are their Guardian Angel now.

“ My deepest condolences to Gail & Linda. Gabe was so loved by those who knew him. My Sons were part of the bunch that grew up alongside of him. As each grew into the men they became they went their separate ways but the bonds they formed will forever be etched in each of them. They stayed in contact with one another no matter the distance. Reading through the FB posts dedicated to Gabe just brings to light how much he'll be missed. May you be comforted with the great memories he left in your hearts, I know my Sons will. God Bless you both & your families.
