“ Im lost of words mom (grandma). I will miss you tremendously and you will forever be in my heart. Thanks for being an amazing great grandma to my starlita, franklin delano, and my abcde. They were crazy about the love you gave them. They have so many memories of you as they were always with you the best one they had was when you would take them shopping. Now i will continue that pattern in remembrance of you. I will never forget all you did for us but most importantly giving us all the love you had. Now with every sunshine we have i know that'll be you shinning down on us with a beautiful bright smile. Rip. Always in my heart and never forgotten. Till we meet again.

“ Staring at this blinking cursor, I can't think of a single memory that made me happiest and words can't describe how I'm missing you. I can't help but feel cheated out of this whole situation; why did you have to be taken from me and leave me all alone? But in the same token as I watch the clouds slowly pass in the sky and the wind blow softly through the trees, I know you're in a better place and can feel you here with me. You always told me how only God can't paint the colors in a sunset and in the sky but now you get to help and we all get to watch. We all lost a beautiful soul but gained a guardian angel to watch over us all. I love you and miss you so much grandma. You taught me so many things that I could never forget and one day I hope you teach me how to fly.

“ Mom..... Oh how I wanted to call you that, but out of respect to my mom who I lost at a very young age and respect to you I always addressed you as Mr's. Gutierrez. I actually did see you as my mom, how could I not, I knew mine for 19 sweet years and you for 31. I will miss our weekend breakfasts, our crazy Black Friday shopping sprees and most of all the last few days we shared together. I miss you so very much! Please tell my mom hello... Until we meet again. I love you Mr's. Gutierrez.
