“ Mom, today will be a year since you left us. It seems like only yesterday you were here with us. There's not a day that goes by that I don't think about you. Sometimes I start to call you & tell you the news of the day then I remember you're no longer here. You've visited me in my dreams many nights & I wake myself up to hug you & realize you're gone . Love you mom & will never ever forget you

“ Mom, it's only been a week since you left us, and we're still grieving. We knew this day would come but there isn't a way to prepare to lose your mom, your best friend whose been with you since you were born. All I can say is in your honor I will try and be a better mother to your grandsons, be a better person. Remembering all the good times we had makes it a little easier to go on. I promise that all of us : George, Liz and Al will remain closer than ever and keep those family traditions you taught us going. I love you mom and I only wish I had spent more time with you. Rest in peace mom! Till we meet again ...
