“ My first memory of my Uncle Joe, I was still a kid and my mother called him over because we found a snake in the yard while playing. My Uncle hurried over, caught the snake and killed it. He then proceeded to teach us how to skin a snake. Going over what steps were next before he could make a belt or wallet from the snake skin. I was amazed by his skill. Later in life he made belts for my son Christian, and both my kids using them when they fit. We still have them because my Uncle Joe made them. Will miss you Uncle dearly.
