“The best and most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen or even touched. They must be felt with the heart.”

Irene Rittimann, Grandmother, Great Grandmother, and Great Great Grandmother has touched the hearts of many. She will be sorely missed but will continue to live within us.

My grandmother has left us so many wonderful memories. Every year growing up we went to the zoo, had a picnic in the park, rode the train, ride the rides at kiddie park, made Christmas cookies, made our own cinnamon and sugar pie crust pies, to coming home from school to homemade bread that she would but butter and cheese on. Yummy. Friday nights when my mother and dad were out the three us of kids stayed with Grandma. We would have fried round steak and french fries as the three of us played school on the back porch. Big Red ice cream floats for dessert where Grandma had to keep track of who used the Mickey Mouse spoon and the pink fluted glass the friday before to prevent a fight between my brother and I. If bad weather came Grandma was one of the first to be at the school to get all three of us and get us home. If we got sick Grandma was there. She was always there for us even when we had our own children. Grand child was sick off to grandmas. She was one of the finest ladies with a heart of gold.
