“Irma was my friend and we worked together at Texas A&M University for many years. I called her “Little Bit” because she was so tiny. Her spirit was a godly one and she never failed to touch the heart of any person she met. One could not help but notice her great belief in our Lord God and she was an example of his love through her gracious demeanor and compassion towards others. She loved her husband and her family but also recognized unspoken needs in others and quietly helped them, expecting nothing in return. She had an attitude of service and her smile lite up a room. She was a dear and beloved friend and I will miss her.

When she left my employment to care for her mom, I was lost without her. We spoke on the phone and saw each other on occasion.

God gained a precious angel when she went home to heaven. She will live in our hearts and memories until we meet again.

Bobby, I pray for you to find peace in your faith and strength and courage in this difficult time. To Irma’s mom, Theresa, and her brothers and sisters, she loved you each dearly and spoke of you often. She was proud of her family and her heritage. May God grant you peace and strength.
