“ We are all saddened at the loss of our friend Jim Hudson. He was like a character out of the old west and was much respected and admired by many people. In the old days, he would have been called a "horse trader" but in our days he bought, sold and traded wonderful historical things. He was the best there was at finding and selling great old objects especially those linked to our western heritage. Te echaremos mucho de menos. Our deepest sympathies to his family.
