He lived life to the fullest and taught those around him patience, tolerance and acceptance. Although Jeremy was non-verbal, he was able to communicate through his beautiful smile and showed affection in many different ways. His communication of love transcended beyond spoken language. “ Dear Jeremy, although we didnt get to spend much time together i want you to know that i think of you often, Today you were on my mind. I miss your beautiful face and the short time i had to know you. You will forever be in my mind my sweet nephew. I often look at the picture of me holding you and a small turtle.... it warms my heart of the fun times your mother and other aunt shared with you when you were so small. From Tennessee to Texas I love you sweet boy and i wish we could have shared more time together but one day we will meet again and at that point we will make up for the time we didnt get to spend here on earth.
Love Always,
Aunt Jessica

“ "What moves through us is a silence, a quiet sadness, a longing for one more day, one more I love you, one more touch. We may not understand why you left this earth so soon, or why you left before we were ready to say goodbye, but little by little, we begin to remember not just that you died, but that you lived, and that your life gave us memories too beautiful to forget. Saying goodbye to someone we love is heartbreaking. May you find comfort in all the special memories shared with Jeremy. Someone as special as him will never be forgotten. He will remain in our hearts forever."

“ *The words I write,
The feelings I feel,
What do I say, how do I feel.
There is no book,
No set way.. how do I say I feel...
I will try.
I sit over here far away, seeing the messages, the pictures, the love,
You are loved.
I guess what I really need to say is that your loved, I see it, you always have been loved and well forever be loved.
I regretfully never got to meet you in the flesh, I will have the memories of seeing you in the Skype chats, facetime, such a beautiful child.
You were, are and will always be loved...
one day we will meet,
We will get to play,
Laugh,
Sing,
Roll in heavens grass.
But for now.. know that you were loved, are loved, and will still be loved... until we meet in heaven.... your in good hands and we will meet some day...*

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Jeremy for the first time when he was 5 years old. I was just starting out in my field of behavioral analysis and enjoyed my time getting to know all the kids, but Jeremy definitely stood out. One of my first memories getting to know him was watching him with one of the male therapists. He was working on Jeremy walking more, and would incorporate an office chair on wheels- shooting him across the room and then having Jeremy push it back! His smile and laugh in doing so, was contagious! The funniest part is that he was fully capable of walking and doing so many things, but he wanted to choose when to do it or not...he wanted it on HIS terms! I'm sure that was the case even as he got older! :) He had a beautiful smile and big, mesmerizing eyes, and was always dressed the coolest out of all the kiddos! Everyone loved him (especially the women) and I'm pretty sure he knew it! We would always giggle when he would say a strain of words/sounds that sounded like he was saying "I'm just a litte chango!" (meaning monkey), and it was so suiting because he was a little, playful monkey! He loved deep, compression hugs and playing with my long hair by swiftly running his hands through it. It's been a joy watching him grow and enjoy life over this past decade through the pictures his father posts online. Following his journey through these pictures and seeing him start high school was awesome! He will be missed greatly, but his smile and love will be forever felt by all who had a pleasure of meeting him. I send my thoughts to you all, and hope that in this upcoming New Year, we all find ways to share love, kindness, and understanding in his name.
