“ I didn't know you well and only got to hang out with you for brief moments at a time. However, I do know you were a good man. You loved your wife and son without a doubt, you loved your family and you loved your brother and sisters in service as they were your true family. They will each miss you... and although you are gone and won't be here to guide CL, I know all those who knew you will step up and help in some way at some point. He will be a loving, caring man, just as you were. He will know who and how you were because everyone will share their moments with you, with him. He will know you were an amazing daddy, the best husband, a great friend, and someone people could trust and go to.

I was just thinking about the first hay ride I went on with you and Stacy. We had a few laughs and enjoyed the night watching all neighborhood kids on Halloween. I'm glad I got to experience that with you and so many others. Thank you for that.

I know our Father has made a beautiful mansion for you and you have eternal peace, so rest easy and keep an eye on all us down here. Give Stacy a geepers creepers scare when she gets out of line and let her know you're here every now and again, she still needs to know your near. And CL, well we all know how much you loved him, and we know you will be his guardian angel. Rest easy

John 💕
