“ My tio would call my dad every day about the same time. My dad and tio could talk for hours about our ancestry, pedro infante, how much he hates Trump but one thing I admired so much that Tio is an intelligent man. Thank you tio for your service, for your generous heart. You loved your family unconditionally ! I pray you rest in peace and you are in the most beautiful place with GOD. Please watch over us and we will see you soon.

“ Zarazua was and is one of my forever friends. I met him one I was 18 in Fort Carson. I arrived at the unit and there was no sleeping quarters available. I was one of the first women to serve in that unit. He gave his room up for me and three other female soldiers to spend the night. Zarazua went to sleep in the Supply Room. There after we serve in the same units until the end of my time in service. For ever grateful to him.
Until we meet again dear friend. Saluting you

“Juan was an amazing teacher and friend to me and my family. He was one of the wisest, most inspiring and patient people I've ever met. It was truly an honor and one of the greatest times of my professional and personal life to know and spend time with him. Every meeting was filled with smiles and laughs and those moments will always live in my heart. God speed, old friend.

*I always believed that my time with Juan as a friend and a co worker was brief, we met in 2006;
We developed a friendship full of good laughs, light sarcasm, crude jokes, learning experiences, sad, funny, & wholesome life stories.
He always stood his ground on hardships Like a true Man.*

*He was very intelligent, saw what many could not. Both professionally and personally. He had an intensive amount of historical knowledge. He knew descriptive geometry, technical trigonometry, Autocad, mathematical formulas like the back of his hand.
Added to that, a plethora of steel fabrication experience, welding, programing & part fit up that made him an Invaluable asset on every project he was involved in.*

*He is a friend that I will always carry in my heart,
I will remember him dearly until the day I die.
If we were born again we would be friends all over again.*
