

Kyle Breck Goff-Shepard

October 23, 1991 - April 7, 2019

“Knock Knock Knockin on Heaven’s Door” Kyle Breck Goff-Shepard received his angel wings and ascended the heavens on April 7, 2019. He reunites with his father, James A. Shepard and sister, Jill B. Dimambro, along with grandparents, uncles and friends upon arrival. Kyle is survived by his precious son, Raylan Alexander Goff-Shepard; Raylan’s mother, Ashley M. Brannon and loving mother Linda D. (Goff) Dimambro. He is also survived by a host of special people and friends, sister, aunts, uncles, cousins, and all who knew and loved Kyle. Kyle was a warm hearted, loving person, who lived on the edge. His passion for helping others will long be remembered. Those who knew him would never define him by his struggles. He was larger than that and while that ultimately cost him his life he would want all to remember his heart that cared deeply for his friends and family. We will be celebrating Kyle’s life at 7:00 PM on Wednesday, April 24, 2019 at Mission Park Funeral Chapels North. Please join his family and friends in celebrating Kyle in a style befitting Kyle. Also, please feel free to leave a memory or thought on his online memorial. Your memories will bring so much comfort to his family. And finally, if you would like to make a memorial donation in Kyle’s name to help others whose life has been marred by disease of addiction, please do so to RMYA (Roy Maas Youth Alternative) <https://rmya.networkforgood.com/projects/16965-annual-fund20018> or to Haven for Hope’s IHRP program.

“ Kyle was a great friend of mine for the short time I knew him in highschool. We met in Mrs.Albrights art class freshman year. We ate lunch together near every day. Our favorite was Thursdays because that was burrito day.

*I was a quite and shy kid and Kyle reached out to me.
I never saw Kyle again shortly after freshman year, but his kindness and funny nature always kept him in memory.
Hearing just now of his passing after looking an old friend up strikes me with very real sadness and hurt.*

*I'll see you in heaven one day my friend.
I'll never forget you.

“ Next month will be 6 months since you left us...as well as your birthday month. I will celebrate you on your day Kyle-Oct 23! We continued to celebrate your dad and jill, Doug as well. I miss you everyday, but it is becoming easier to not have you physically here. You had your troubles my dear son, but your goodness far outweighed your difficulties! I look forward to the day I see you again, along with Jill and everyone else. I hope too be here long enough to guide your sweet son Raylan into adulthood...you would be so proud of him and he misses you dearly! I love you Kyle and pray you have found your place and your peace! Look to the sky on your day-October 23 as I send you Happy Birthday wishes for number 28!

“ I became friends with Kyle when they moved into our neighborhood..Kyle was everywhere all the time. LoL Being a single mom, Kyle quickly would give a helping hand whenever it was needed. Kyle became part of the family. Him and I would sit outside for hours talking about kids, moms and dads and the answers to adulting. I would try and give motherly advise the best I could and loved every moment spent with Kyle. He had the biggest heart and we always laughed because I told him if he spent half as much energy into working as he did getting out of it, he would have it made. 😊 Kyle tried really hard to put his life in order and tried really hard to adult the best way he could. He talked a lot about his mom and his son and his family too. He loved them very much. He was always saddened and carried much regret for his actions throughout his life and wished he could have a redo! I always told him one foot in front of the other. When he put his mind too something he got it done. When he went to work for 50 Shades of Green. He would take 2 busses to get to the office. I was wondered how long one person could do that but he did it. Kyle, like many my heart hurts. I wished I could have done more for you. I pray for you now that you are at rest and you are finally free. Keep watch over us. I'll see you on the other side!!❤️❤️
Much love, Pauline Marrison
