“Darling Margie was my favorite visitor—my most gracious guest. I can see us now—sitting on the couch, nibbling on potato chips, and sipping sodas. We talked about everything from books to dogs to the human condition. During our discussions, thoughtful, sensitive Margie posed deep philosophical questions. She knows the answers—and perfect peace—now. We who loved her are left to mourn and to wonder why such an enchanting person was taken from our midst. I pray now for those who loved Margie most—her dear family. May God comfort you and grant you the strength to bear your loss. Love, Elizabeth

“ Aunt Margie,

You are and will always be one of the most important people in my life. You have been there every step of the way as I grew up from bringing me home from the hospital when I was born to helping me pick out my wedding dress. I will always keep our fun times together and our retail therapy trips. I will love and cherish you forever. Rest easy I love you.
