“ Mario had a laugh that could brighten anybody's day up! He was a real close friend of mine and I have so many memories of him in heart that I'll cherish forever! When Mario and I would talk on the phone it was just laughs with him we had this thing every time we'd talk where Mario would just say out nowhere I mean it could be the middle of July on the hottest day and he would say " Hey Paco!! Happy New Year!! Then the laugh would come out. Mario had his way of just making people laugh. That is something I'll never forget. Mario I miss you brother! My heart hurts knowing I'm never gonna talk to you again! I love you brother fly high with your angel wings you're with your little brother now

“ Ever since I met my best friend Gabriel at the age of 4, I've looked up to Mario. Everything Mario did was "cool". He guided me through my adolescence, and was the big brother I never had. He introduced me to the coolest toys, then the coolest video games, and ultimately the coolest music. The memories I have are numerous, and all will be cherished.

“ The day he was born!!! He was a joy. On the first day he was born they took his picture. When we received the photos I said to rose it looks like he's talking on the telephone we have the pictures to prove it. I said he's going to be a talker. Boy was I right. He also like to sing, but that's another part of a story. I will miss him dearly! To the end of the earth and the heavens and back. Mario now joins his brother Gabriel Angel, who are now instruments of GOD who someday will rule the earth. Love you with all my heart and soul and every ounce of my body. Dad!!! Mario Aleman Sr.

I met Mario when his mother and Alex bought the Rodeo cleaners. Mario was a very nice respectable young man. May he rip in paradise.
