“Maureen (Mickie) and I spent two lovely summers together when I was reading medical literature in the library of the Southwest Foundation. It was an extraordinary time where I could read anything driven by my own curiosity. Mickey was always there to give me guidance when I needed it. The most remarkable things about Mickie were her humor and wisdom, often rolled together.

That was over 60 years ago. Mickie was one of the greatest influences in my life. I shall always be grateful to her. I was deeply mired in a demanding career in industry and academia in other parts of the US, and never went back to see her again.

One of my greatest regrets was that I never thanked her for her great influence on my life. Thank you, Mickie, for all you have done to help me and others. I shall never forget you.
