“ May God Bless and keep this beautiful soul. Melinda's son was friends with my cousin's son, David. When David died, Melinda took her children to his memorial service. When she found out that a close friend of David's had not heard of his passing and did not make the funeral, Melinda went out of her way to take that friend to visit David's gravesite. That meant more to David's family than Melinda would ever know. Melinda will be remembered by these things she did for others, for her kind heart and her generous spirit. She is in our prayers.

“ As a mom myself, I am so thankful for this woman and her incredible daughters. When my mother in law passed suddenly and at a young age, we had no one to watch our young daughter. The family had opted for an open casket and we knew our toddler wouldn't understand. I was stuck between a rock and a hard place- being with my grieving husband- oldest of the children- so he wouldn't have to go through one of the toughest days alone- and watching our daughter in an ante room.

She, Esmie and her youngest daughter- showed up out of the blue before the funeral. They saw it on my Facebook and the news, and decided to drive over 50 miles to come help us. They never even thought twice about coming and I can NEVER thank them enough for allowing me to be with my husband on that day. I wish I could repay them for their many kindnesses.

Between helping me through some of the roughest times as a momma, giving me a break when I was overwhelmed, always genuinely caring for my daughter, Rory... I am heartbroken that this saint of a lady has left us. She loved her family with her whole heart and somehow had more to give to complete strangers. Every person that this kind woman's life touched- our lives are better for it. I'm so thankful for the example and honored that she showed my family what Christ's love can do in action. Rest easy now and know that your family will be loved and taken care of by so many. In Jesus' Holy name I pray, wrap this family in your arms, Lord. Please Comfort them. Surround them all with peace and love for this season of grief in their lives. May their suffering last briefly, and their Joy come with the morning- knowing full well that Your daughter, Melinda, has come home to you. Praising you entirely that your will is done and thanking you for showing them the abundance of your Love. Amen. God Bless You.
