Many of us are concerned about the currency of this world and rely on faith to get us into the heavenly realm of the next world. Micaela understood that love is the truest currency of both.

When her husband built the house of mud and plaster that her 78 year old son lives in today, it had no running water or electricity. She and her husband hauled water that they bartered for with a neighbor. Micaela's priority was to love and protect her children. Eventually, the dirt floors were filled with concrete, her husband dug a well, and the house was wired with electricity.

After 25 years of marriage, they divorced. Micaela struggled with the responsibility of raising 6 children on her own. She worked 20 years as a housekeeper at La Mansion Hotel along the Riverwalk. It was a recipe of love and true grit that kept her going. Her solution was more love and more determination to make it through. Micaela gave her love to God and the church in addition to her family. She read the bible daily and prayed for hours.

She prayed for wisdom, determination, patience, understanding and courage. She prayed to give and receive greater and greater love. Now, Micaela is one of the wealthiest in heaven for she resides in God's Kingdom.

Micaela is preceded in death by her parents; husband. Gregorio Martinez; son, Jesse Martinez; sister, Alicia Ramos.
