“ Mom, that’s who you are my mom, my bestfriend, my rock. Thank you for the best 23 years of my life. With out you I have no clue where I would be. You help me through everything. You are me & I am you with out a doubt in my mind. Everything I do & who I am is because of you I drink to much coffee & I love to spend all my money at bingo & I play way to many scratch offs. You taught me so many things with out even realizing it. You love me so unconditionally & so gentle & of course I love you the same plus more. I can tell you I love you a thousand times a day & it wouldn’t even be close to how much I really do. Please don’t ever feel like you’ll just be a memory because you won’t. You will forever live beside me & help me through this life until I see you again. thank you for never judging me you always have my back no matter what it is.

I’ve made so many changes in my life, I know you’re so proud of me. Everything I told you I would do in life I promise you’ll I’ll do it. I love you with all my heart , I’m at such a loss at words even though I was never going to be ready for this I’m happy you aren’t suffering & I can’t wait to see that beautiful smile again. I could only imagine you seeing nanny & my papa. I hope they have bingo up there & I know if they do you & your sister are playing away. I could go on for forever with all our memories & good times but we can save that for another time it’s never a goodbye mom. I love you

“ Momo,

I've dreaded this day for as long as I can remember. I'm heartbroken and just thinking of how we got here...

Our closeness was not always this way. I remember when I was young the candy and promises of toys... you tried so hard to win me over, but I was born papa's girl. I loved you plenty, but I just wanted to be outside with papa.

Through the years though, a bond formed. You became my rock, my secret keeper, my partner in crime and best friend. You showed me the meaning of unconditional love. You taught me the fundamental difference between a mother's love and a father's love, which was pretty life changing for me. You preached forgiveness and just wanted everyone to get along. Your kindness was contagious, and my favorite thing about you. Unless you were talking politics then your feisty side came out. And while I would never dare tell you this, I secretly loved how passionate you were and that you didn't back down and weren't easily swayed.

Your love was always constant in my life and free of conditions or judgment. Without you and mom who knows where I'd be. Once I started my own family and career, life became hectic and we drifted apart some but your love never changed. In fact, that same love was shown to my family and you soon became my boys secret keepers.

I don't know where to go from here. I wasn't ready for this chapter to end. But I know you are where you are meant to be and I can only imagine how thrilled papa, nanny and aunt Shirley are to have you up there. Thank you for all of the love and everything you have taught me. I will love you and miss you forever. Please come visit once you settle in. XOXOXO
