“ Tuesday, Oct.18, 2016 she could barely speak. She tried to tell me something but I am heard of hearing and could not under stand what she was saying. On Wednesday she never even tried to talk until about 9:00 pm. Then, after I was in bed, she very clearly said "I love you". With tears in my eyes, I said :I love you too Mom. I do love you Mom. I always have and always will. And I will meet you on that beautiful shore.

Your loving husband.

“ The absolute example of what a mother's love should be. She was mine for almost 58 years. Even in her failing health, I knew that she loved me, because the last thing she ever told me was "I love you." Well Mom, I love you, too. I will always love you and I will always miss you. Save a seat in heaven for the rest of us, we'll be on our way before you know it.

She was the best mom anyone could ask for. Not only did she raise her kids but she helped raise her grandkids. I am forever grateful for all the love and help she showed me and my kiddos. We will miss you dearly mom.

Momma taught us how to sew, cook, be husbands/wife, and how to raise our children. She never said no when we asked for help, and gave great advice even when we didn't know we needed it. I will always be thankful that she was our mom, and will miss her every day. I love you Momma.
