“ Mom

My mom is the pillar of our family, 7 children, 25 grandkids and 29 great grandchildren.

When we were in the Philippines, My mom worked as a seamstress. She would sew dresses up to midnight to support us, and put us all to college. She worked hard all week long but Sunday is her rest day. She would take us all to church, and we are all excited because after church, she would take us to the park and to our favorite restaurants.

She was very kind and generous. I remember her cooking a lot of this maja Blanca or the fruit preserves and sharing it to our neighbors. She always helps everyone in need. She would open our house to most of our relatives needing shelter and assistance.

Upon coming to the US, She worked hard to petition all her remaining children from the Philippines, so we can all be together.

For my mom, education is very important. She would always say, the only legacy I can bequeath you is helping you finish your education. And I know she has already fulfilled this with all her children and grandchildren graduated from college, some even with Master's degrees.

She raised all her children to succeed in life and live their faith in God.

In her old age, going to church is still her priority, she even have her favorite handicap spot in Oak Hills Church. During her last conscious days, though very weak, she still requested to be taken to church.

One thing I would surely miss is her nightly phone calls. Every night, she would call all her children and siblings to tell them that she's praying for them. She would even recite her nightly prayers with me. She says the words God Bless you to everyone she meets.

Words are not enough to recount everything she has done. She is the epitome of the woman described in Proverbs 31.

Matthew 35:21 says Well done thou good and faithful servant, Enter thou into the joy of the Lord. This is our assurance mom that you are now in heaven rejoicing with the angels and continuously interceding in our behalf.

We can only say mom thank you for your love and sacrifices. We love you mom! Till we meet again

“My dear friend, Rebecca, has been a dedicated prayer warrior, who prayed for my mother, my family and me for almost two decades. God bless her for all her kind and uplifting words of encouragement throughout those years. I can still hear her voice say, "You are not alone. God is with you." That reminder meant so much to us. Rest in God's arms my faithful friend and Sister in Christ. My heart and I will miss you very much.

“ We miss you, Lola! A few of my favorites memories:
I will never forget how you made me breakfast every morning and helped me get ready for school.
Watching you throw bread to the birds off of our balcony as I walked back home.
Reminding me to eat walnuts and peanuts because they would help my brain and make me smarter.
Taking you to the store to buy fertilizer for the roses.
Painting your nails. Doing your make up.
Your daily phone calls and voicemails.
Watching you take extra helping of my chocolate chip cookies.

Hi Ma, more than 2 years has passed, I just miss you even more. My entire 58 years revolved around you and just so hard to not have you around. I had been irresponsible at making sure doors are locked, blinds closed, stove left on...I can go on. I really needed you. I wasn't and will never be ready to let you go but I know you are now resting in the arms of Jesus, your final and utmost peaceful destination. Thanks for trying your best to pass on the importance of knowing and believing in Jesus. You tried so hard and repeatedly gave blessings to everyone around. You made it your mission to show your love to your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren by wanting to ensure we all get to share a place with you in heaven. When we meet each other again, you will not be on your wheelchair, no walker (although I miss that so much). You will not need me to hold on to you so will not fall, just your usual strong self, always loving protector I remember when I was young, I just pray that I can also have courage, strength, and knowledge to continue on the effort you started, for everyone to have the knowledge of Jesus and be saved for eternity. Love you Ma.
