

Reynaldo L. Rodriguez

July 27, 1917 - September 7, 2005

Our beloved father, Reynaldo L. Rodriguez, spent his last day at home with his wife Bertha Gil Rodriguez. They were married and he remained devoted to her for fifty-nine years. He was a loving father and grandfather. He looked forward to celebrating birthdays and holidays. His daughters, Diana Rodriguez, Bertha Gonzalez, Pita Rodriguez-Pollock and Sandra Rodriguez were blessed with his tenderness and spirit. His grandchildren, Ana Laura Gonzalez and Hector Rey Cardenas, will miss him deeply. Reynaldo is also survived by his sons-in-law, Raul Guerra and Gary Pollock. In later years he enjoyed the company of his niece Rosa and nephew Hector Rodriguez. Rey was a veteran of World War II. He arrived at Pearl Harbor the day after the attack and served in the Pacific until 1945. He seldom spoke about his experience because he missed the friends that lost their lives. He came back to his beloved Eagle Pass, Texas, where he was born. He moved to San Antonio to take a job with other veterans at Kelly AFB. He worked hard, nurtured his family, and showed them how to take joy in small things. In the end he taught us how to have courage and dignity.

“ My Grandfather was a really nice and funny, peaceful man. He loved cartoons like Woody Woodpecker, Donald Duck was his favorite character. We often bought him Donald Duck plush animals as gifts when I was younger. He also watched Cheers and Three's Company and laughed. My Grandfather was very kind and loving he loved us very much. I had the good moment once waiting for a table at a restaurant we got to drink a beer together as grandson and grandfather.
