“ I was Richard's banker at Chase on Nacogdoches Road for a number of years. I grew quite fond of him. He was always so polite in that he would call me ahead of his visits which grew more frequent as time went on. What I can say is that his devotion to his late wife was so wonderful and is how a marriage should be. He missed her so much. I feel that he is in a wonderful place now with the love of his life.
