“ I just don't know where to start with this story of love between Val and Stella Cervantes. The beginning was when Val Cervantes and I worked for U.S. Security Associates. Val Cervantes was one of my most outstanding security officers that I had the pleasure to supervise. He was a gold star among the 100's that I worked with and supervised including another one and his name was James T. Crow. After I left U.S. Security Associates and began working at the Menger Hotel. Val Cervantes was so moved and loyal to me that he followed me over to the Menger Hotel. Again here we were working together again which set in motion an event that only God knew the beginning and the ending of a love story on this earth. Stella and Val's chance meeting and spark started as an injury call for assistance after Stella fell and injured herself. Val made the call and administered first aid which it seemed to Stella that she found her White Knight On A White Horse, and that's how all this came about. So I feel grateful that I played a part in allowing Val & Stella a moment in time to fall in love and to make a fruitful walk together in life. I know that we always can't see the bigger picture in life. But these series of perfect choices and moves allowed Val & Stella to find happiness and each other as short as it was. I know that this love has not ended so hang on Val stay strong; it's not over with Stella is waiting for you with a perfect body and soul. I know this as a fact because I believe in God.
