

Steven Thomas Mullagan

March 25, 1952 - October 19, 2018

Steven Thomas Mullagan age 66 of San Antonio, Texas departed from this Earth on Friday, October 19, 2018. He was born March 25, 1952 in Queens, New York. Steven was a 1979 graduate of the Polytechnic Institute of New York (now New York University Tandon School of Engineering) with a Bachelor in Electrical Engineering, and later in life a graduate of Drexel University with a Master in Electrical Engineering and a graduate of the University of Houston with a Master in Business Administration in 1983 and 2001, respectively. Prior to his retirement, Steven worked as a project manager for ExxonMobil. Steven was preceded in death by his father Wilbur, a New York City police officer, and Elizabeth Mullagan, a homemaker. He is survived by his wife, Carmen Lisveth Mullagan; his daughter, Kerry Alicia Godkins and her husband, James; his son, Sean Thomas Mullagan; and his grandson, James Lee Godkins.

Steven lived a full, driven, hard-working adventurous life with hobbies that ranged from guitar-playing in his younger years to sailboating in his later years and almost everything else in between including travel, culture, and politics. While Steven's second biggest hobby was anything ocean-side related, whether that be relaxing in his condominium in South Padre or sailing the waves of the Gulf of Mexico, Steven's first and foremost hobby was his wife Carmen and children Kerry, 37, and Sean, 33. Steven was taken from his family far too soon, however his family is eternally grateful for the lives, opportunities, and adventures he built for them, and his love, compassion, generosity, and comical sense of humor will be painfully missed.

“ I remember Steve from high school days. We were a group up friends who hung out together, had a lot of laughs, good clean fun. He was a guitar playing, long haired nice guy. Sad to pass so young. Bless him and keep his family safe. With deepest sympathy
