“ After we lost Daniel, I remember Vickie telling me how much she missed him and that she would have sworn that as she walked by the sofa bed he slept on one night after he was gone that she felt him reach out and grab her leg, like he would sometimes do to scare her. As she shared that with me, she had such a genuine and warm smile, it made me feel he was still with us in a way. I can see them now, both in Heaven, ribbing each other. Lin and I love you all and hope if there is anything we can do for you that you will let us know.

“ I met Vickie when I was working with Johnny and we all went out for a beer. Vickie and i hit it off immediately. We messed around alot on Saturday ya know go eat or the movies. Then we started having a few friends every Friday night and having wine and cheese (cause you know Vickie loved her cheese). We would laugh til we would almost throw up on those Friday nights. And we had a slumber party where Johnny drove her up on a Friday night in her jammies and pillow and picked her up in the morning. Now that was a blast a slumber party at our young age! Those are my best memories and I loved Vickie. I will never forget her as the friend she was and the person she was. She adored my mom and my mom adored her. But, of course, her true love was Johnny and always will be. I could go on and on but Vickie and I will meet again to laugh and cry and hug.
