

Walter Bruce Wyss

July 19, 1930 - August 20, 2008

Walter Bruce Wyss, July 19, 1930 – August 20, 2008. He left this world singing. What better way to sum up our fathers attitude toward life? Dad was blessed to be born into a family with loving parents and 3 sisters who adored him. He married the love of his life; Lula B. Wyss and stayed by her side for over fifty years. Together they raised a family of two sons; Wayne and Mark, and adopted every stray kid who needed a hug and a little guidance that crossed their path. He was, without a doubt, the most people oriented person you could meet. I remember when we were growing up it seemed that no matter where we went dad met someone he knew. It was only later in life we realized he really was just making new friends along the way! You cannot sum up a life in a few short paragraphs. How do you describe the deep and abiding love a husband gave his wife? The joy he must have felt when holding his newborn sons for the first time? The absolute bliss he experienced when those arms reached out and held the future, his beautiful granddaughters: Kristina and Brianna, on the days of their birth? No, a few short lines in a newspaper could never tell the story of this life well lived! Although he has left our world a lonelier place he has not left us. We will take comfort in our memories of him. I will see him in the smile of my brother and hear him in the laughter of my young nieces. It sounds like singing. It sounds like my dad. Goodbye Daddy. Bruce Wyss, 78 years, one month, one day. Survived by: sons, Wayne Wyss and spouse, Don Hersh, Mark Wyss and wife, Rosie; grand children, Kristina and Brianna Wyss; sisters, Freda Stalter and Barbara Gunnels and more nieces, nephews, and friends than he could count.
